

❖ Differences between a compiler and an interpreter:

Difference	Compiler	Interpreter
Translation mechanism	It translates entire program to machine code at once.	It translates single instruction of a program at a time.
Translation time	It requires more translation time.	It requires less translation time.
Debugging	Errors are displayed at the end of the compilation process.	Errors are displayed as they met.